Advice for new students

- Plan your path to four-year graduation early
- Make connections with the people around you who are committed to your success
- Never be afraid to ask for help from the team at UCF
- Prepare to experience a wide range of modalities of courses from online to large lecture to lab or active learning
- Seek out high impact experiences in your coursework
  - Undergraduate research
  - Service-learning
  - International experiences
  - Integrative experiences

The UCF Integrative Gen Ed experience:

- prepares students to broaden and deepen their understanding of common human themes and to develop an awareness of diverse cultures, and understand the cultural, historical, economic, and social implications of what they learn
- prepares students to be successful writers, speakers, and producers of digital materials in the academic, civic, and professional worlds
- provides students with a deep understanding of scientific methods and learn to connect and apply them to challenges facing society
- prepares students to be well-informed citizens who can reason and can apply analytical, statistical, and computational methods to the challenges of a globally-diverse and technologically rich environment
- prepares students to assess and decipher information in a world full of conflicting sources
